

Amazing Places:

The Great Wall of China

The Egyptian Pyramids

The Great Wall of China is on the continent of Asia.

The Great Wall of China is an ancient series of walls and fortifications, totaling more than 13,000 miles in length, located in northern China. The construction of the Great Wall as it is known today began around 1474 to protect from attacks from the north.

The Egyptian Pyramids are on the continent of Africa.

Science Key Vocabulary:

living dead non-living Habitat food chain
field hedgerow pond,
woodland seashore
ocean rainforest arctic desert
air food water shelter
heat warmth sun

The ancient Egyptians built pyramids from 2700 BC until around 1700 BC. The first pyramid was erected by the Pharaoh Djoser and his architect Imhotep. The largest Egyptian pyramids are those at the Giza pyramid complex.